DISCLOSURE OF CRIMINAL BACKGROUND

POLICY:

Combat Stress aims to promote equality of opportunity for all with the right mix of talent, skills and potential. We welcome applications from diverse candidates. Criminal records will be taken into account for recruitment purposes only when the conviction is relevant. Unless the nature of the work demands it, job applicants will not be asked to disclose convictions which are 'spent' under the Rehabilitation of Offenders Act 1974 (the Act).

Having an 'unspent' conviction will not necessarily bar an applicant from employment. This will depend on the circumstances and background to the offence(s).

As Combat Stress meets the requirements in respect of exempted questions under the Act, all applicants who are offered employment will be subject to a criminal record check before the appointment is confirmed. This will include details of cautions, reprimands or final warnings, as well as convictions.

Where a post is not exempted under the Act Combat Stress will only take criminal convictions into account when they are relevant to the post. Applicants are not required to disclose convictions that are 'spent' under the Act. Reprimands and final warnings are considered 'spent' immediately that they are given. During the rehabilitation period, convictions are referred to as 'unspent' convictions and must be declared.

Have you ever been convicted of a criminal offence?
